

Clinical Intervention Program (CIP) and SROP Program Description

CIP is an outpatient treatment program designed specifically for persistent DWI offenders, or those identified during the assessment screening process as being "high risk" for chemical dependency. This program is designed to be completed within 5-6 weeks. The program includes individual counseling, group counseling, and group education, with 10 hours focusing specifically on drinking and driving issues.

The SROP is an outpatient program consisting of a treatment episode of at least 90 days. Services include individual counseling, group counseling and group education.

Midwest ADP develops an individualized treatment plan for each person served. Staff uses the data collected at intake to identify therapeutic issues and develop strategies to address these needs in collaboration with the consumer.

Our philosophy has room for flexible approaches to recovery, and we utilize several treatment modalities, including person-centered approaches, cognitive behavioral therapy, motivational interviewing, and others, in order to enhance and sustain consumer motivation and success.

Our goals include motivating clients to create a readiness to change in beliefs, attitudes and behaviors. We believe abstinence and recovery will lead to greater outcomes for our clients in many life areas, including health, employment, education and legal issues. We assist clients in developing strategies and tools that lead to having the necessary coping skills to maintain abstinence and recovery.
